The AAPD is the largest national, nonprofit, cross-disability, member organization in the United States. This organization is dedicated to ensuring economic self-sufficiency and political empowerment for the more than 50 million Americans with disabilities. AAPD works in coalition with other disability organizations for the full implementation and enforcement of disability nondiscrimination laws, particularly the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) of 1990 and the Rehabilitation Act of 1973.

ADA INTERAGENCY TASKFORCE

Website: www.disabilityaccessinfo.ca.gov/services.htm

In order to share and coordinate information about disability access issues among key state departments, the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) Interagency Taskforce (TF) was created in October of 2000. Its charge was to make recommendations on the allocation of one-time funds to increase architectural accessibility in state owned buildings and to develop a plan to identify any unmet access needs and recommend methods for meeting such needs. In addition to this website, the ADA TF has developed a series of bulletins addressing a variety of access issues, particularly for state government in California.

This handbook discusses both California and federal laws that protect the rights of individuals with disabilities. California and federal law should be examined together to get a complete picture of the law on a particular topic. In some areas, California law provides more legal protection or is more comprehensive; in other areas, federal law is more helpful. At the end of the handbook, there is a Directory of Services that lists the type of complaint or lawsuit to be filed and the appropriate agency at which to file that complaint.
